

ALUMNI LEADER

College Summit:

Founded in 1993, College Summit is a nationally-recognized nonprofit increasing community-wide college enrollment rates of low-income students. College Summit's innovative and scalable model helps build a college-going culture in schools from within—by tapping influential students, and providing high schools and colleges with the tools to ensure that every student who can make it in college makes it to college. To date, College Summit has served more than 15,000 low-income students, with current regional offices in California, Colorado, Missouri, New York, South Carolina, Washington, DC and West Virginia. College Summit also serves students in a growing number of other potential sites around the country. For five years in a row, College Summit has been recognized by Fast Company Magazine as “one of the top groups changing the world.”

Every summer on the campuses of our College Partners across the country, College Summit trains 40-50 high-potential rising seniors, called Peer Leaders, at four-day summer workshops to navigate the college admissions process and build a college-going culture in their high schools. These Peer Leaders will learn effective ways to finance their college education, hone skills and techniques to positively influence their peers, and discuss methods to overcome the challenges they will face as they work to enroll in college. Most students arrive on campus assuming that college is out of their reach. Four days later, they leave confident that college is a real option for them.

Role:

Alumni Leader role is a great opportunity to give back to other students a gift that was shared with them, while at the same time furthering both their personal and professional development. Alumni are the foundation and most influential role at the workshop as they serve as role models of how powerful the workshop experience can be if Peer Leaders take advantage of the opportunity that is presented over the course of the workshop. Having been through a College Summit workshop as a Peer Leader, they are uniquely situated to offer advice, guidance, encouragement and reassurance to students throughout their workshop experience. Alumni Leader roles focuses on two themes:

Inward Journey: Explore and reflect on their personal and professional development areas by participating in Alumni Leadership Development Sessions. These sessions will be provided by different members of the staff to provide well rounded development opportunity that challenges Alumni assess and improve their growth areas and achieve their goals.
